Frontline Institute in Zimbabwe

Frontline Institute was established in Zimbabwe in 1993, and can accommodate 120 students. Two courses, each of six months, run throughout the year. The idea is to train Humana People to People key staff to be in the frontline of development and fight against dehumanizing phenomena such as poverty, illiteracy and diseases and become Global Activists and Citizens in the process. Students are chosen among employees in Humana People to People projects, who show commitment to development. The students receive scholarships, paid by Humana People to People members. The aim is to train enough activists to fulfill the current needs at the projects and to pave the way for expansion with more projects and in fields of development. The project has trained 5,180 students since its inception, and reaches thousands of people through its program at the school in the local communities around Frontline Institute, and across countries in southern Africa.

Child Aid Shamva/Bindura

The project strives to improve the living standards of the child and making sure that the nutrition, education, health and hygiene, food security and good environment are met through the engagement of their families. Child Aid recognizes that changing the conditions in the community transforms the life of the children and of each community member. Involving the children in all community activities helps them to have a brighter future and develop their full potential. The project is operating in 4 wards targeting 3,200 families and works with 160 Village Action Groups.

In 2018, Child Aid Bindura /Shamva worked with 15 pre-schools which have an enrolment of 600 pre-school children. 24 youth clubs were functional with a total of 582 club members and these helped with education of the communities. The project supported 41 children on palliative care through community home based care and referred 38 children for school fees support to the Social Welfare Department.

Farmers' Clubs Makoni

DAPP Farmer's Club Makoni started in January 2013. The project aims at increasing household family income and nutritious food for 1200 smallholder farmers (300 old and 900 new) in Makoni District. The project achieves this through organizing farmers into 24 Farmers' Clubs of 50 members with a 5-member committee each. Farmers participate in lessons, exchange visits to share experiences and demonstrations on how to use low cost solutions. The project mainly focuses on garden farming where it aims at increasing horticultural production and encourages crop diversification with drought resistant small grains. Farmers produce sufficiently from their land to obtain food security for their families and earn cash from selling their products on the market.

TC TB Makoni

Total Control of Tuberculosis and HIV Integrated program is implemented in the high TB and HIV burdened Makoni District of Manicaland. It began in January 2017. The project is based on the TCE methodology where people take responsibility to fight the scourge of diseases. Makoni District is one of the 14 districts with high new HIV infections in Zimbabwe (World Food Programme, 2016). The project is working to combat tuberculosis and HIV in the area, to reduce stigma and discrimination related to TB and HIV infections as well as increasing awareness, diagnosis and treatment services. This is done through targeted case finding done at community and household levels.

The project aims to reach to 100,000 people in Makoni District. The project mobilizes and informs people on TB and HIV/AIDS as well as referring the people to be tested for both TB and HIV in 58 local health facilities.
